Expand and spread education to the large community.

FPT University is a large-scale university but only focuses on training a few majors: Information Technology, Business Administration, and Languages, in which there is no pedagogy. To overcome this, with the desire that the university's students will be the seeds of spreading education in the community, the university has organized free elective courses on teaching methods according to international IBSTPI standards for students. Many students have signed up for this course.

All majors in English, Korean and Japanese have a major in Pedagogy. Many of them are promoting teaching to students in the community, giving first priority to primary school students in remote mountainous areas, with poor educational and living conditions

Lifelong learning

At FPT University, lifelong learning is one of the important learning outcomes of the training program.

From January 1, 2021, FPT University has established a Soft Skills subject, focusing on communication skills, teamwork, study skills, research... for the purpose of equipping and supporting study skills. students for life.

Self-study is emphasized as a core value of the training environment at FPT University instead of the traditional way of learning that is deeply ingrained in Vietnamese education.

Then, in early 2022, the school established a department of ethnic music, a startup subject with this goal. This creates unique values for FPTU's students, even after they graduate and continue their studies, supporting them to succeed in the future.

English proficiency is considered an important key for university students and lifelong learning. It is also part of the university's goal of training global citizens. The first semester at the university is an English-focused semester for all students who need to improve their English at different levels.
